The Gospel all Over the World

Dear friends,

Greetings in the name of the Lord Jesus!

Pakistan Update:

After an absence of 17 years, I finally felt a release from the Lord to go to Pakistan. I first flew to Karachi, where I spent almost a year in prison for preaching the Gospel when I first received Jesus.

I was received at Karachi Airport by two army officers, who had served under my father. One of them was now the commanding officer of the Airport Security Force. These men really rolled out the red carpet for me and I was shown great honor thenceforth at every airport in Pakistan.

From Karachi, I flew to Lahore. I must say it was rather unnerving when the pilot announced as we began our descent to land, "Ladies and Gentlemen, this is your captain speaking. If it is the will of Allah, we shall soon be landing at Lahore International airport!" I said to myself, "I don't care what Allah wants. Jesus is with me, and we are getting down safely!"

Lahore is where I received the Lord Jesus, got my first Bible, and heard the voice of the Lord for the first time, as well as, where I was arrested, and where I was locked up in a mental asylum for my faith in Christ. I was asked by a local pastor to minister at a healing service.

I was escorted to the venue by armed men. As I entered the place I was amazed to see over 25,000 people attending! About forty percent were Muslims, including women in veils and entire Muslim families. Imagine, these were people who never heard the Gospel, but they came because they heard that Jesus Christ heals the sick!

In preparation for the meeting, over a thousand people had fasted and prayed that day. The power of God was mighty in that place. As I stood upon the platform, my right hand began to shake uncontrollably and I stared at it in amazement. I had never experienced a thing like that before.

When I got up to preach the Gospel the Fire of the Lord fell, and over 8000 people received the Lord Jesus. God then sent a wave of healing power over the crowd, and multitudes were healed; deaf, blind, paralyzed, etc.

There were just too many to number.

There were military officers in the meeting who had served under my dad and knew my family. They were absolutely floored, knowing I was from a strong Muslim family, when they saw me preaching the Gospel! All glory to Jesus!

Heavily armed police were there in force to protect us, in the event that Muslim extremists would try to cause problems. The Pakistani government has come down very hard upon extremists and terrorists, and we experienced no violence or persecution! My one regret was that this was only a one-night meeting!

From Lahore, I traveled to the capital city, Islamabad, to spend time with a retired Colonel who was my best friend when we were officer cadets. He cried when he saw me after all these years. I spent three days with him and his family, and had the opportunity to share the Gospel with them. After which he asked me to pray for them!

We are thankful for the opportunities we have to share the Lord Jesus with people, be it to a soccer-field packed with a mass of humanity or one on one with an individual human being.

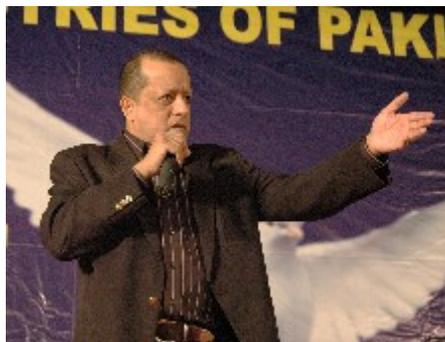

People are precious to God. They are so precious to Him that when Jesus came, He did not come for the gold or silver of the world, but for the people. People are what Jesus died to save!

The very last recorded words of the Lord Jesus upon this earth, before He ascended to Heaven are found in Acts 1:8, "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Spirit comes upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

How did His disciples respond? We find the answer in March 16:20, "And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following."

Jesus speaks and those who love Him with all our hearts rise up to obey His bidding. It's like when David sighed and uttered a longing for a drink of water from the well of his boyhood village of Bethlehem, and three of his foremost mighty men heard his sigh they arose and left everything. Drawing their swords, they ran toward the Philistines, who then occupied Bethlehem.

They fought their way to the well, got some water, and fought their way back to David. David was stunned. His slightest sigh had become something that they were willing to die for! As for David, he did not count himself worthy to drink that water, but poured it out as an offering to the Lord.

I am talking about love, devotion, and passion. People sometimes ask me what it is that drives me. Let me tell you. A couple of days after I first gave my life to Jesus, a young American called Judd McKendry asked me, "You have given your life to Jesus; do you know of the conditions to follow Him?" I answered him that I did not. He took out his Bible and opened it to Luke 9:23-24.

I was 21 years old and this was the first time in my life that my eyes had ever seen a Bible. Judd had me read the passage, and it said, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it."

I understood that to be a follower of Jesus I had to choose the path of self-denial. I had to take up the cross daily. Jesus took up His cross only once, and that was when He was going to die. I had to be ready to die daily. If I was not ready to die for Him, then I was not fit to live for Him.

This was branded into my heart that day, and soon after that I spent nearly a year in prison for the Gospel. I was overwhelmed that God had counted me worthy to suffer for His Name's sake.

Many years have passed since then, and I live in another land half way across the world, but I am still walking that path and carrying that cross. The Calvary Road is a path of sacrifice, but also of joy unspeakable and victory.

It is the joy of walking in the footsteps of our Master and embracing that which is most precious to Him, the cause of the Gospel to the nations. It is also the joy of seeing multitudes of souls coming to Jesus, and the joy of seeing God confirm His Word with miracle-working power. After all these years, that Fire burns in my heart as fierce as ever. As it was written in Leviticus 6:13 over 4000 years ago, "The Fire shall ever be burning upon the altar; it shall never go out."

Let us keep that Fire going in our hearts, in our home altars, and in our churches! Many have thrown away their zeal for missions, for taking the Gospel to the nations, and have traded it for other things that they find less challenging yet more gratifying for the eyes. Their sermons are good motivational speeches, but the fire and the passion are gone. Let us not let it happen to us. Keep the fire burning!

This is harvest time. Let us keep on preaching the Gospel, and continue winning souls for Jesus!

Thank you for your giving, your prayers, and your support. The Lord Bless you in every way!

God is Faithful!

by Jan Davis

On January 29, 2006 I gave birth to Ethan Scott Davis. My husband John and I were married for over 9 years when I became pregnant with Ethan. It was not our intention to wait so long to start a family; we were ready within months after our wedding and decided to let the timing of our children in God's hands. Months turned into years, and the questions and emotional hurdles continued to present themselves. Each time we wondered if we should pursue medical assistance, and each time we felt that, for us, God was saying 'no' through a lack of His peace.

This journey has been a testimony of God's grace and faithfulness. He brought us through each low point stronger than before, with an increased knowledge that He truly was in control. God gave us the grace to be content with our lives without children, and the ability to recognize the ways He used us that would have been difficult or nearly impossible to do if we had children.

God is faithful, and we are truly blessed to now be experiencing parenthood. I pray that He will give each of you the grace to be content where you are at, and the ability to rest in His divine timing for each area of your life.
